About mute-labs

Modern offices are often open spaces with few places to retreat to. That's great for exchange and collaboration, but it makes it harder to concentrate. mute-labs solves that dilemma: since 2018, we've been developing, producing, and selling phone and meeting booths.

You can use our sound-insulated booths alone or as a team. They're ideal for video calls, meetings, and focused work sessions. From day one, founder Conradin Castell wanted to create the best possible product at a fair price. Thanks to reduced complexity, smart standardization, and optimized planning, mute-labs can now offer unbeatable value for money.

Our high-quality booths naturally come with excellent service too. Our teams support you from the first consultation through delivery and for years after your purchase. That makes mute-labs a reliable, all-round partner for your office.

More Case Studies

Here's what our 7,000+ happy customers say ...

Through our partnership with mute-labs, we have created a working environment that meets the demands of modern working life while sustainably improving our teams' satisfaction and productivity. Our teammates particularly appreciate being able to switch between open and enclosed spaces depending on the task at hand.

Liv Mantke

Head of Office Management & New Work, Decathlon

Our mute-labs booths are used with great enthusiasm every day. They bring more calm to the office, as phone calls now take place inside the booths rather than in open areas. We were also particularly impressed by how carefully and smoothly the installation was carried out by mute-labs.

Leonie Kerkhoven

Executive Assistant, Warner Brothers

We really enjoy working with mute-labs. The service is fast, and the entire process was straightforward from start to finish. It's great to work with a partner who keeps things simple and delivers exactly what we need.

Built with Responsible Materials

Every mute-labs booth is designed to last for years while minimizing its environmental impact. By selecting durable, responsibly sourced materials and working with certified suppliers, we ensure our products meet high standards for quality, sustainability and traceability.

Wood from responsibly managed forests

The wood used in our products is sourced from FSC® certified forests that are managed with respect for biodiversity, local communities and responsible forestry practices.

Certified traceability throughout the supply chain

ISO 38200 provides complete traceability for wood and wood-based materials throughout the supply chain, giving confidence that certified materials remain separated and verified from source to finished product.

Tested for European safety requirements

All mute-labs products comply with applicable European safety requirements and carry the CE marking, ensuring they meet relevant standards for safety, health and environmental protection.

Supporting sustainable forestry worldwide

PEFC® certification ensures that our wood comes from sustainably managed forests with full chain of custody, helping protect forests for future generation.

Recycled PET Felt

Giving plastic a second life
Our acoustic felt is manufactured using recycled PET bottles, reducing plastic waste while delivering excellent acoustic performance and durability.
